GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, KENTUCKY.

THIS Institution occupies a high rank among Western Colleges. Its Library, Cabinet, and course is the same as that of Yale College, while its instruction embraces all the best portions of the course at West Point.

For young men designed for practical business there is a course of three years in which a thorough knowledge is imparted in agricultural Chemistry, Physiology, Zoology, Practical Engineering, Principles of Commerce, and Book Keeping. In this practical feature the College is believed to be unequalled. Its high aim is to furnish American scholars, and American business men. The rapidly increasing number of Students in attendance is proof of its high rank and efficiency.

This seat of learning is no mere experiment, whose peritance is doubtful, and whose diploma is therefore of uncertain value. It is in a position to exercise and maintain a wholesome discipline without the fear of extinguishment; and to require of its students every thing scholarly and manly in the department. It has long had arrangements adapted to all classes of students, and so adjusted to the various branches of study, that the practice of crowding 150 or 200 young men into one building. REVOLUTION IN TEXAS.

IT will be remembered, that, in the beginning of the revolution, in 1836, Texas offered large bounties in land to volunteers to serve in her army.

We now offer, to the students, and heirs of those who have served, the recovery of all the lands promised by the Government of Texas to the volunteers, regardless of date of character, whether Spanish, Mexican, or American. For every acre of land granted, having complete access to the Muster rolls, Maps, Records, and other documents in the Public Office at Austin city, we enjoy superior advantages for investigations of all kinds in regard to claims.

We will give particular attention to the recovery of LANDS illegally sold, for taxes or otherwise, and to estates which have suffered from Inundation or mismanagement of agents or administrators.

To persons having LAND CERTIFICATES FOR LOCATION, we can offer particular inducements. Our thorough and intimate knowledge of the country, and surveys of the state, obtained from personal inspection, insure the most favorable locations, and perfect titles.

LONG EXPERIENCE, and close attention to the LAND SYSTEM, and an accurate knowledge of the different classes of titles, together with the large amount of land registered in our office for sale, enables us to furnish prompt and reliable information, and assistance to persons desiring good homes, and to afford superior advantages to those wishing to make SAFE and PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS.

We are offering for SALE LANDS in every part of the state--improved and unimproved, of every variety, and in tracts to suit purchasers; also town and city lots--in short every kind of real estate on the most favorable terms.

To persons having land in Texas for sale, we would say, that we keep books, in which are registered descriptions (furnished by the owners, or obtained by personal inspection) and full exhibits of title, of all tracts to be sold, thus furnishing a cheap and effective mode of advertisement. If desired, we will examine land in any part of the State, ascertain its value, and report faithfully. Register for one dollar.

We invite the attention of MERCHANTS, ROGERS, and individuals to our office, furnishing a speedy and effective mode of collecting.

By activity, energy, and fidelity to the interests of our employers we hope to merit the confidence of the business public.

March 1, 1855-1-ly.

HENRY R. FERNON, Esq.

Dear Sir:--

Like a number of others, I went to the Court House on Thursday night. To hear Mr. Garfield speak, and Mr. Hanson's reply.

Mr. Garfield's speech was one of the most eloquent and powerful, I ever heard, with regard to the present political questions, which agitate this country. He left no stone unturned,--with the eye of an honest man and a patriot, he surveyed the whole field of controversy; logically and conclusively establishing every position he took--Hilmaro Kentucky--Democrat and Catholic--as I am, I feel proud of the advocacy of such a man;--standing as he does, on those broad principles of freedom, union and equality, the true landmarks of the Democratic party, from the day the first Revolutionary gun echoed the death knell of British tyranny, down to the present time. And why not feel proud of him, when in the providence of God I had the good fortune to unite my political destiny with that party which, (while all other parties are gone with Sam, by the subterranean rail-road to the adopted country of Benedict Arnold; to worship at the shrine of Catholic hating, Protestant, Abolitionized England,) it alone bows meekly and reverently, at the altar of civil and religious liberty, with that spirit of true patriotism characteristic of Americans, (those who are the legitimate children of the stars of '76.) Pledging its political faith to the Immortal Father of our common country, and with him offering up its prayers to the throne of Grace; beseeching God in his mercy to extend the greatest of all blessings, (the right to worship him untrammelled) to the remotest posterity.

Sir, as one of that party, and one who whose loyalty to the Constitution is respected and attacked by the K. N.'s; and the religion which gave me birth and in which with the blessing of God, I intend to die, calumniated and held up to the gaze of my fellow citizen, as one hostile to the best interests of this country, I feel it a duty to me to my country, to my religion and my God, to hurl back into the teeth of my adversaries, and the advocates of the Democratic party, the foul charges of treason and disloyalty. In doing so I will show who the real culprit is.

Sir, Mr. Hanson in his reply to Mr. G. remarked that it is often said, foreigners, have great claim on us; and point to Columbus and Lafayette as instances to show that we are indebted to them largely. What, said Mr. Hanson do we owe Columbus or Lafayette? They are dead and gone; [he might have added their works still live] if in Heaven they don't need our help; if in Hell they can't leave there; [bright idea] so we owe them nothing. What a profanation of these memories so sacred to Americans.

What do we owe Irishmen or Dutchmen, said Mr. Hanson? I answer nothing, the Irish and Dutch scorn the idea of accepting the slightest gift or privilege at his hands. There is a right, though, that we claim; and it is guaranteed to us by the Constitution when we employ with its requisitions. It is the right to earn our own bread and eat it; and worship God at our own altars, undisturbed by religious and political bigots in the South and religious and Abolitionist bigots and fanatics at the North. Mr. Hanson said: Oh yes we owe them one debt. He tells an anecdote about two Kentuckians and a Paddy, in which it appears, they took shelter for the night in an old house, to avoid being discovered by the Indians; they went up to a loft and lay still for some time; shortly however eight Indians came in, struck a fire, and commenced cooking; but curiosity led him to take a peep at the Indians, and leaning on the end of a plank, down he tumbled amidst the frightened Indians, and exercising his wit he hallooed, 'Come on boys, we have got them; the frightened Indian ran away, and Pat actually licked eight red skins; took their guns, meat, grid-iron and all. I forgot said he, we owe the Paddies for that.

Oh how will the Paddies be able to show their gratitude to the gentlemen for the acknowledgement of the meat and grid-iron debt--for my part I let him off by telling him--that was more than Simon Girty did for Kentucky.

But Sir, in virtue of what does the above mentioned claim consist?--by virtue of the blood of the gallant Montgomery I believe the first General that fell in the Revolution--and by virtue of the blood of the noble Marner, the last Revolutionary General that fell in the conflict.

The former, an Irishman, sealing his mission with his blood before Quebec; whilst his companion in arms only lived to leave a dark stain on the escutcheon of his country, in this case who was the traitor? The latter General Mercer, a Scotchman, fell in that charge at York town which gave the last Revolutionary defeat to the red-coats of George the Third.

Sir, we claim it by the blood of Berall who fell sword in hand, fighting on the plains of Camden, Catholic though he was; we claim it by the right arm of James of South Carolina martyr--[Irish as he was] who struck the first blow in that State for freedom, we claim it by the blood and sinews of Kosciuszko, the great Poleander who died in the cause of freedom in his own country, long after he helped to establish it here; we claim it by virtue of all those French troops led on by Lafayette, over many a bloody field, principally Catholic;--we claim it by virtue of the Irish brigade under Louis the 16th of France, who volunteered to a man to come out here when first the France and American alliance was mooted. But France as yet not being resolved on war, a number of their officers were promptly sent out with Admiral de Tienry [himself of the same race] and Count de Rochambo, who brought six thousand French troops. Who sir, do we see at the head of these French and Irish troops? I need only repeat the names: The Dillbena, who afterwards died so gallantly in defence of Maria Antoinette; of Count Phillip Roche--of the Marquis McMahon, and other French-Irish officers, who served in the last campaigns of the revolution--and whose survivors formed in one of those two files between which Cornwallis marched with empty scabbard out of Yorktown.

I claim it, sir, by Virtue of the part taken by my Country men on every red field of the revolution, from Bunker's Hill to Yorktown. I find them
